AT THE HOTELS.

George W. Cheyney, the new postmaster at Tucson, is stopping at the Commercial. When seen yesterday evening he complained of lack of ambition on his part to do or say anything, and believed he would try for a sleep that had been denied him for about forty-eight hours.

"Think it warm here?" queried Mr. Cheyney. "No, indeed, this is as pleasant a summer climate as any one could wish for. It is a regular summer climate. Winter don't dare come a-flooding around to interfere with the business of summer here in Phoenix. With us in Tucson during the summer season the doors are occasionally opened and invitation is extended to old winter to come in and play around in the back yards for awhile. You folks in Phoenix are too exclusive. Hence this perspiration."

"I am here as a witness in some kind of an alfalfa suit. I believe it is on for tomorrow, and while I dislike very much to leave your beautiful city hurriedly, yet if it is possible I shall take the flyer out for Tucson tomorrow evening."

"The only thing I can tell you about the Tucson postoffice is that I shall assume the reins early in the coming month. My first official act will be the reduction in the price of stamps. Tucson is a progressive city and her people are constantly on the alert for something new and original in the progressive way. As soon as I was confirmed for the postoffice the population waited upon me in one vast body and demanded to know what I was going to do for the old pueblo. I couldn't think of a thing to save my life that Tucson needed. All of a quickness this reduction plan popped into my head and just as quickly I popped it out. The cheers by which the announcement was received was compensation enough for me. Of course this step will eat up all of my salary, likewise my estate, and perhaps encroach somewhat upon the estates of my friends, but the term friendship means something in Tucson and when we say a thing we mean it. And so when you want postage stamps cheap come to Tucson any time after I swear in."

Herbert Gray of Tucson arrived in town yesterday morning. He is slated for the captaincy of one of the companies now forming for the front. He is tall, slim, straight as an arrow, with a clear blue eye bespeaking the honesty, earnestness and purpose behind it. Speaking of the new organization last evening, he said:

"It is my idea that the governor, if he is not going with us himself, will give us a leader whom we can follow willingly. I hope the governor can see his way clear to go. I do not know who are the candidates, but I understand there is quite a list. Any way, our boys are in fine fettle, ready to march at the word of command and the word cannot come too soon to suit us."

TESTED FOR WAR.

Recruits for the Phoenix Company to Be Examined Today.

Governor McCord yesterday received a telegram from Adjutant-General H. C. Corbin, U. S. A., saying that no change could be made in the order placing Arizona's quota of the regiment to be recruited in the four territories at three companies.

No change of importance in the governor's plans was announced yesterday except the designation of the officers of the north and south companies. Those of the south are Herbert Gray of Tucson, captain; Wiley E. Jones of Solomonville, first lieutenant, and K. L. Hart of Tucson, second lieutenant.

The officers of the north company are C. E. Donaldson of Prescott, captain; F. C. Hochderfer of Flagstaff, first lieutenant, and Walter G. Scott of St. Johns, second lieutenant. The examination of recruits for the Phoenix company will be begun at the Hotel Adams this morning.

COLLECTOR'S CASE.

A. A. Long Arrested for Misappropriation of City Funds

The Second Expert Examination of His Accounts Confirmed the Finding of W. C. Foster.

The denouement in the case of City Assessor and Tax Collector Long came in his arrest yesterday afternoon, charged with a misappropriation of the city funds. He was locked up in the women's cell of the city jail. He will be arraigned before Justice Johnstone today, when his bond will be fixed.

The second investigation of the collector's books were completed about the middle of the afternoon by Frank Meador, assisted by W. C. Foster, whose report had been submitted to the mayor last Saturday. Mr. Meador agreed that Mr. Foster's finding was correct. Another receipt which had not been entered was discovered, swelling the deficit by $83. This having been agreed upon, Mr. Foster's report was made public and is as follows:

"Phoenix, Ariz., June 25, 1898.
"The Honorable Mayor and Common Council, City of Phoenix, Ariz.
"Gentlemen: In view of the very serious condition in which I find the accounts of Mr. A. A. Long, city assessor and tax collector, I deem it necessary before completing my examination of his official business to call your attention to the attached report of my findings to date. The report embraces two separate periods of time, the first showing an amount of $2,397.29 due the city to April 30, 1893, which date is the end of the fiscal year; the second showing an amount due the city from the latter date to June 24, 1898, of $520.

"Very respectfully,
"W. C. FOSTER."

Including the receipt for $83 found yesterday the total amount due the city was therefore $2,910.79. There was a balance of $238, reducing the deficit to $2,672.29.

As soon as this showing was made a meeting of the mayor, council, the bondsmen and Mr. Long was held at the Hotel Adams. Everything was done with the greatest formality. The mayor made a demand upon Mr. Long for the balance due the city. The collector replied that he did not have it, had never had it and could not get it. He repeated what he had frequently said before, that he could not understand the situation. He could not imagine how the deficit had occurred and believed that he has been systematically robbed, but by whom or how he was unable to conjecture.

The members of the council then directed the mayor to begin criminal proceedings against the collector. He went directly before Justice Johnstone and swore out a warrant against Mr. Long, charging him with appropriation of the city funds. Mr. Long in the meantime remained at the hotel, where the warrant was served on him a few minutes later by Constable Frank McClintock. The constable went back to the sheriff's office, followed at some distance by Mr. Long and the mayor. After a brief conversation in the office the collector was locked up. He was badly broken up and had little to say of the painful events of the last four days. He was visited by friends in the afternoon and early evening.

The council also directed the removal of Mr. Long from office and the appointment of W. C. Foster.

The bondsmen of Mr. Long, who were seen yesterday, spoke in high terms of the moderate, but business-like course pursued by Mayor Adams in the unfortunum matter. This approval is shared by the leading democrats of the city, who admit that a less fair man than the mayor would have tried to turn the case to political account. During the investigation of the books while the deficit was piling up day by day and even after the report had been submitted to him, the mayor made known the discovery only to the bondsmen, for he desired to give the collector at the proper time an opportunity to make an explanation and avoid the scandal of publicity. At the same time he neglected no measure necessary to secure the city against loss.

SCHOOL LAND CASE.

P. B. McCabe, Daggs Bros. and the Normal School Board on Trial.

On the docket of the district this morning is the case of P. B. McCabe against the normal school board. This suit grows out of a transaction between a former board and the Daggs Bros., then of the Tempe bank, in which the latter purchased a section of school land which they proceeded to improve. Subsequently it was sold to P. B. McCabe. During the time it was held by the Daggs Bros. a payment of $600 was made on the purchase. The law with reference to school lands having changed the normal school board was unable to give title to the land, and demand was made for the $600. The present board refused to authorize the return of the money and the present suit is a result of the refusal.

Some months ago this matter was up before the board and all of the members being attorneys with the exception of J. H. McClintock, it was the legal opinion of the board, backed by the attorney-general, that the $600 should be returned. Why this opinion did not prevail must be the subject of another chapter in the history of this school land case, only obtainable through the channel of court proceedings having initiative today.

FARMERS SHOULD BE HAPPY.

During the fiscal year ending with June the amount of money received for agricultural products from the rest of the world by the United States will exceed $800,000,000, and may reach $835,000,000. Never before have they reached the $800,000,000 mark, and only twice have they passed the $700,000,000 line the fortunate years being 1881 and 1892.

Compared with the last fiscal year the increase in exports of agricultural products will be fully $150,000,000, and compared with the preceding year the increase will be over $250,000,000, while the total will be nearly 50 per cent in excess of that of the fiscal year 1895. Breadstuffs lead with nearly $1,000,000 for each business day and the total more than $100,000,000 in excess of last year's exports of breadstuffs. In provisions, which embraces beef, hog and dairy products the totals reach $160,000,000, a considerable increase over last year.

Live beef is gaining greatly in popularity with the foreign customers, and the exports have increased materially while beef, either fresh, canned or salted, not only shows no increase, but in most cases there has been a falling off.

It is still too early to speak with assurance of the probable requirements of Europe during the coming year, but the outlook is hopeful.

The remarkable showing made by our export trade in agricultural products and the hopeful outlook cannot fail to have a most important bearing upon the material prosperity of this country.—Data from Scientific American.
